

Work a Day for Rinpoche

Report on 2008 Saka Dawa Campaign Distributions

The following table summarizes the income and disbursements from the Saka Dawa Work a Day for Rinpoche Campaign in 2008.

Income to the Saka Dawa Campaign		2008
Total Donations Received		$69,595
Less Credit Card processing fees for credit card donations		($447)
Net Donations to Work a Day Campaign		$69,148

Disbursements from Work a Day Campaigns
Donations to Vision Projects	$50,809
Donations to Charitable Projects	$10,000
Administrative and Fundraising Expenses	$ 8,883
Total Disbursements from Work a Day Campaign	$69,148

The charitable project donation went to Osel Labrang for support of the lung transmissions.

The distributions from Work a Day for Rinpoche were defined by Lama Zopa Rinpoche and approved by the Board of Directors of FPMT Inc. The above table and chart shows that 14% was distributed to a charitable project, 73% was distributed to the Vision Projects that are mandated in the FPMT Mission Statement and 13% went to Administration and Fundraising.

Report on 2008 Saka Dawa Campaign Vision Projects Distributions

The following chart provides a breakdown of the disbursements to Vision Projects for the Work a Day for Rinpoche 2008 Saka Dawa Campaign.

Education Services creates all the education materials and practice materials for FPMT under the supervision of Lama Zopa Rinpoche. In addition, it offers support to all the programs, students, and centers who are using these materials. Some of these programs include Discovering Buddhism, Basic Program, the Masters Program, translations of rare texts, oversight of the translation program, and the development of the new online learning center.

Center Services offers support to all study groups, centers, and projects worldwide as they provide service to the local communities in areas such as dharma education, hospice programs, health care, essential education, prisoner support and book publishing. Center Services' activities include distribution of the eNews to 10,000 people, provide key advice from Lama Zopa Rinpoche, maintain Rinpoche's homepage and through the California office coordinate all of Rinpoche's travel and personal advice. In addition, it provides direct support to all new center directors, resident teachers, regional and national coordinators, and spiritual program coordinators.

Mandala is the official publication of the FPMT and is published quarterly via Foundation Membership. Mandala offers authentic Buddhist teachings from a lineage of masters that traces back to the great Lama Tsongkhapa, and through him, to Shakyamuni Buddha. In addition, Mandala is a contemporary read, with a clear and practical approach to the challenges of the 21st century. Mandala also profiles the projects, personalities, and spirit of FPMT's thriving global community, impassioned with the purpose of eradicating suffering in our world.

Information Technology Services provides the underlying computer and internet technology that supports all of the activities above as well as communicating with the world. IT Services maintains three websites, the email system, two databases, an ecommerce system, and is assisting with the development of the new online learning center. Although it is visible in all we do, it functions so well that most of us are not aware of the contribution of IT Services to the function of FPMT and all of Lama Zopa Rinpoche's activities.